Adventurer is an award winning Fantasy RPG where you play a an all-new Class of Barbarian. You are tasked with a risky mission to rescue a woman named Sara. Only a few years have passed, and the barbarian you remember is a memory, long gone. Retrace the footsteps of the Adventurers of the past as you travel in search of answers... In a world where the old may be forgotten, the new forgotten, but the legendary never dies! Rules are in Appendix (pages 84-86) Start of Mission (pages 72-77) Sara's Rescue (pages 89-102) "You must save Sara! She is not going to forgive you if you let her die..." Customer Reviews: "I loved playing this game, all the ideas that were in there made it just so cool." -Erik "The RPG part was awesome. It felt very Kobold and had the perfect music." -Bobby "I don't know how to describe how cool this was, I'm pretty sure it may be the first time I've played an adventure I could actually see out of all the books I've read since 4th Edition." -Adam "I absolutely LOVED this game. I have never seen so much action packed into a game before." -Caitlin "The extra missions make for some good twists and turns in the story, that keep it from getting too cheasy." -Vanessa About the Author: Scott has been playing role-playing games since he was 14 and has served as both a Game Master and one of his players for the past 25 years. He has done everything from running games for groups of 100+ at conventions, to hosting games in bars, to playing in games with a friend when he was high on marijuana and barely conscious. Scott was the dungeon master for the first 7 Pathfinder Worlds novels in the "Voyage of the Star Compass" series. There are currently 3 books in the series. Currently Scott is the system developer for Paizo and works as a freelance writer in Kansas City, Missouri. He has been married for 17 years to his lovely wife, Jennifer, and they have 2 children, Abby and Jamie. He is a recovering alcoholic and spends most of his time being generally antisocial with his family and longtime gaming friends. Gameplay videos at: Game Designing Tips at: c9d1549cdd

You would think that was all that the United Nations would demand, just for a cup of coffee at the space agency in the little square one door from your own. But what could we possibly learn from the Solusis Institute about all that is great and glorious about the human race, about our place in the universe, about the future of humankind? We thought: If there's one thing we can agree on, it's that we don't know how to "Play it Safe"! Is Solusis out to make a fortune with this little Space Race game? Of course not. In fact, none of the sponsors at the Solusis Institute need to profit from it. Rather, they're there for something entirely different. The question is: How to gain as much knowledge as possible about mankind's place in space, and how the human race will develop in future? For that, you need a game that's meant to incite the imagination, to make mankind reflect on who we are, what makes us different from each other, and what could make us better? The classic answer to all these questions: space! You'll be at the helm of your ship, taking it to Mars (that's Mars, not Mars II) as fast as you can! And the less time it takes, the more points you'll receive! You'll be commanding it from the ground while constantly calculating your travel times. You'll be working your way through the game for the highest scores. If you happen to get stuck, you can always come to your friends and try to help them out. After all, there's no point in pursuing your goals alone, is there? Solusis Institute is counting on you: Are you ready to take on this challenge and maybe get your next coffee for free? Gameplay-Surviving Mars: Space Race has over 600 achievements! Beat the previous high score! Space Race is just a cup of coffee away! Download it for free right now! Your journey to Mars begins as soon as you download! And the interesting thing is: we need your help. If you love space and want to see the human race going to Mars in the near future, we need your help. And that's exactly why we've created the FREE Space Race app: so we can work on your mission - the best way we know: by

What's new:

I am attending RADLUG tonight, picking up the book from here: and am finding about a month ago on a whim in a local bookstore a small collection called Blood, Artifacts, and a Blind Mirror -volume 1, 2 (currently available on Amazon.com, but only partially available for Kindle) I thought that this was a title with a great science fiction horror film element to it and contacted the editor, David Viitanen of Piercing the Veil. When the book arrived, I found out that I had asked for a copy of the original version of the book which is edited by Deric Smith - the same Deric Smith as more recently entered into cryptozoology with his book Project Daedalus. I quickly saw “Daedalus” and “Callisto” and “Artbook” by the spine and if you look at the cover art these are the only three, and the book is available in print and soft copy in black and white. On Youtube, I located a realtor case study by realtor Paul Clarkin, who was shown the book by Viitanen and Clarkin was asked to make an endorsement for the book over being excited about what the book contains. There are no claims by the realtor about the book being connected to any real cryptid or being about any “hallucinogens”, Clarkin is made out to be throwing out these abstract ideas like “illusions”, “matters of perception” or “sculptures” and the book needs to be put out there to hopefully see some sales. I have to add that every now and then he uses the actual words “hallucinogen” but within normal parlance about these matters. If you do not know about the book, I would say give it a red hot read...its about art, some artwork, some reproductions of artwork. I would say try to read it in some sort of movie theater if you can as it really is best with the sounds and lighting of a dark setting. As I have said I bought the book, it's priced at $16, but you can buy it from piercingtheveil.com with the option of getting a bookmark or a rubber stamp with the book and the famous diagram from the book. Wait!! I didn't yet know

Di Do Bobble is an addicting puzzle game that takes the classic Yahtzee dice-rolling gameplay and shakes it up! Instead of rolling sevens to get a Yahtzee (with five dice) the player rolls their four dice, collects four props, and uses them to score high. Playing Di Do Bobble is simple, but keeps you entertained for a long time!Q: Log rotation with an associated file I am working on a log rotation program that reads all the logs in a specific directory and rotate them accordingly. I want the application to send the rotations to the associated log files to then be sent to the destination file like this: /path/to/destination/log_file.log /path/to/destination/log_file2.log /path/to/destination/log_file3.log ... I've gotten to the point where I get the file names of the logs to be rotated, but I'm getting a bit stuck how to associate this to an actual log file. What I have so far is this: private void RotateLog(string Path) { List LogsToRearrange = new List(); string[] Files = Directory.GetFiles(Path); List fileNameList = new List(Files); foreach (string fileName in fileNameList) { if (fileName.EndsWith(".log")) { LogsToRearrange.Add(fileName); } } foreach (string File to be rotated in LogsToRearrange) { string pathToFile = Path + "/" + File; string originalFileName = Path + "/" + File; log4net.ILog log = LogManager.GetLogger(Path); System.IO.FileInfo fi = new System.IO.FileInfo(pathToFile);
